

Course Title	:	Developing Leadership through Service Learning
Course Code	:	CSL1006
Department	:	Curriculum and Instruction

Synopsis

This course provides a platform for integrating the knowledge of leadership development and community engagement through a service-learning process. Students are expected to broaden their horizons on the understanding of leadership. Topics include leadership and organizational culture, leadership traits and styles, emotional intelligence, understanding and leading individuals, strategic leadership, distributed leadership, etc. Besides, students have opportunities to gain hands-on leadership experience and knowledge through organizing and participating in service activities that respond to social issues and that cope with genuine community needs. Service recipients may include but not limited to the mentally and physically handicapped, marginal youth, senior citizens, deprived students, ethnic minority children. Students may also immerse in a social organization for a period of time to help the organization extend their service and meet the genuine needs of the community.