| 7 mins | Consolidation | Pair work: Information gap activity: Each pair of the students will be given a deck of 8 cards of places in Hong Kong. One side of the card is a picture of a place; the other side tells when it first appeared in Hong Kong. At first, the picture sides of the cards face up. Students take turns to take a card. When a student gets a card, the other asks a “Was there” question, and the | - Hello, I am Mrs. Lam. It is very nice to meet you all. Life was so different 60 years ago. Do you want to know more?
- Was there a cinema/post office/wetland park/theme park 60 years ago?
- Now, let’s play a card game. You will work in pairs. First you put the cards on the desk, picture sides up. Then one person takes a card. For example, I take a card and I don’t let my partner to see the other side. Then my partner needs to ask me a question “Was there a/an… 60 years ago?” And I look at my card, it says “1925”, so what should I say? “No, there wasn’t.” Do you know how to play? Now you can start. | Game cards | Observation
