Dr Paul Campbell is an Assistant Professor of Educational Administration and Leadership at The University of Hong Kong. His research and teaching focuses on the intersection of leadership, collaboration, and educational change, with a particular interest in education policy development and leadership preparation and development. Prior to moving into higher education, Paul was a Vice Principal, Senior Leader, and Primary Teacher in Scotland, Australia, Spain and Hong Kong, and is a Scholar-Practitioner Fellow of the Asia Pacific Centre for Leadership and Change.

He is widely engaged in the broader education community. Paul is an elected board member and director of the International Congress for School Effectiveness and Improvement (ICSEI) and also serves as a Co-coordinator of their Educational Leadership Network, as well as chair of their Publications sub-committee. He also sits on the editorial board of the School Leadership and Management (SLAM) and Management in Education (MiE) journals, and is the National Representative for Hong Kong for the International Study Association on Teachers and Teaching (ISATT). In 2025, Paul co-founded with Professor Sefika Mertkan the Knowledge Production in Educational Leadership Research Network.
