Ms. Miao Zhang is currently the Executive Associate Editor of the ECNU Review of Education (ROE). Before joining East China Normal University, she spent over a decade as a senior editor at an international publishing house. At Springer Nature, she held the position of Editor for education journals and books in Greater China and was also the Book Editor for East Asia. Throughout her career, Ms. Zhang has worked closely with many prestigious domestic and international universities to produce high-quality educational journals, series, and academic books. She is actively involved in international academic exchanges and collaborations. With her exceptional cross-cultural communication skills, Ms. Zhang has a profound understanding of the international academic community. This enables her to accurately identify trends and needs in global academic publishing and to provide authors with precise and effective strategies.
