Hui-Ling Wendy Pan is a distinguished professor in the Department of Education and Futures Design at Tamkang University (TKU) and a former Dean of the College of Education. Her research focuses on educational leadership, educational change, evaluation, and school improvement. With extensive experience serving on ad hoc committees for Taiwan's Ministry of Education, she was appointed convenor of the Strategic Alliance for High School Curriculum Implementation, an initiative designed to strengthen networks and foster collaboration among the central government, local government sectors, and schools in implementing the 12-year Basic Education Curriculum. She also chaired the Ministry of Education's Cross-System Collaboration Committee, which works to enhance the quality of 12-year Basic Education through collaborative governance. Beyond contributions to policy and practice, her dedication to academia is reflected in her active involvement on the editorial boards of esteemed education journals and her service on the boards of directors for over fifteen academic associations.
