

Research Assistant I (Ref: 2400301)
Department of Chinese Language Studies
Impact of Explicit Instruction and Task Repetition on Non-Chinese Speaking Students' Oral Interaction: A Quasi-Experimental Study
[Appointment Period: 12 months]

The project aims to create a pedagogy designed to enhance interactional competence among primary non-Chinese speaking (NCS) students in Hong Kong. The appointee will work on a research project on Impact of Explicit Instruction and Task Repetition on Non-Chinese Speaking Students' Oral Interaction: A Quasi-Experimental Study. The appointee will coordinate with schools participating in the study, overseeing the research progress, developing educational materials and research instruments, collecting and analysing data. The appointee must be proficient in Cantonese and Mandarin, along with the ability to perform academic writing in English. The role demands a high level of responsibility.

Applicants should have at least a Bachelor's degree or an equivalent qualification with good training in second language learning theories and discourse analysis. Priority will be given to those with experience in teaching non-Chinese-speaking students. The appointment is expected to commence as soon as possible.
