

Research Assistant I (Ref: 2501249)
Research Centre for Chinese Literature & Literary Culture

Project title: The Eye of Distances: Wang Qishu, the Literary and Culture in the Qianlong Era

[Appointment Period: around 12 months]

The appointee will primarily assist the Research Centre with daily administrative tasks, ensuring smooth operations. The role involves assisting in overseeing student helpers, preparing project proposals, drafting reports, and supporting dissemination activities, planning and coordinating academic activities, and any other duties as assigned. He/She will also assist the Principal Investigator with his/her research project, such as including data collection, project planning, and report writing.

In terms of qualification requirements, priority will be given to applicants with backgrounds in Chinese Language and Literature, Communication Studies, or Humanities. Candidates should possess a Bachelor's degree, with a preference for those holding a Master's degree in these fields, and have at least one year of relevant working experience. They should be highly proficient in both English and Chinese (Cantonese and Putonghua), attentive to fine details, self-motivated, able to work under tight timeline, and have good communication skills. Immediate availability will be an advantage.
