Lynn Htet (Myanmar)

Bachelor of Arts (Honours) in Language Studies and Bachelor of Education (Honours) (English Language)

Since I discovered EdUHK study programmes, the well-planned and effective training courses were impressive for me as a student-teacher. The study programme consists of detailed information and analysis on both education and English language studies which are of high quality. As not many Asian universities focus on teacher training programmes, EdUHK is the best and most effective option to study at because of its various focuses on teacher training programmes. Despite still being in junior year, school-based teaching and observation internships are offered. After completing an internship, I have learnt about real-life experience in the Hong Kong Education System at a local primary school where NET scheme is offered. Not to mention the fact that helpful lecturers and tutors are always ready to help. Last but not least, EdUHK's strong debut in global ranking as an Education Programme-focused institution is another proof to be considered for a prosperous future due to the strong and faster growth.

Kargabaeva Kamila (Kyrgyzstan)

Bachelor of Science (Honours) in Artificial Intelligence and Educational Technology

My first year at EdUHK has been full of opportunities to grow academically, professionally, and personally. I joined the Bloomberg GBA Fintech Talent Initiative, visiting companies like UBS and connecting with industry leaders. As a selected participant in the Top Scholars Development Programme, I gained valuable STEM internship experience and developed leadership skills through projects and mentorship.

EdUHK's supportive environment makes it easy for me to explore new interests—from joining the Robotics Club and competing in Robocon, to serving as an International Student Ambassador and helping new students settle in. The University also offers rich mentorship opportunities, such as the EdUHK Mentorship Scheme, where I receive career guidance from professionals in AI and technology.

Beyond academics, student life is vibrant and diverse, with cultural events, sports activities, and clubs for every interest. Here, you are encouraged to challenge yourself, meet inspiring people, and make the most of every opportunity to learn and grow.
