Research Assistant I (Ref: RAI/QEF/LML/0919)
Department of Linguistics and Modern Language Studies

The appointee will be responsible to work for a project on developing online Cantonese learning and teaching materials for non-Chinese speaking learners. His/her duties include, but are not limited to, providing research support to the project team, collecting data, document preparations, database construction and management, and any other related duties as assigned. The appointee is expected to commence the appointment in October 2019. The appointment will be for a period of 23 months.

Applicants should have a Bachelor’s Degree, preferably in Linguistics or a related discipline. Interest and experience in working on Cantonese linguistics and developing multilingual learning resources such as lexical databases is an advantage. Prior knowledge in database construction and management is expected. The candidate should have a strong proficiency in both written and spoken both English and Chinese (including Cantonese). Great communication, computer capability, independence, multi-tasking and attention to details are essential.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.
