

Research Seminar:

The Editor's Eye: A Journal Editor's Perspective on Making Your Manuscript Shine

 Date: 12 Feb 2025 (Wed)

 Time: 12:00nn - 1:00pm

 Hybrid: D1-LP-06
(EdUHK Tai Po Campus or via Zoom)

Prof. Chris Krägeloh

Faculty of Health and Environmental Sciences
Auckland University of Technology

Abstract

Drawing from extensive editorial experience as Editor-in-Chief of Mindfulness (Springer) and the Journal of Psychology and AI (Taylor & Francis), this workshop offers insider perspectives on successful academic publishing. While conversations among colleagues often generate myths and misconceptions about journal operations and acceptance strategies, this session provides clear, practical guidance on navigating the publication process. Participants will learn effective approaches to enhance manuscript acceptance rates and streamline their writing process by understanding editors' priorities. The workshop addresses crucial aspects of ethical publishing and highlights common pitfalls to avoid. Additionally, it explores various opportunities for researchers at all career stages to contribute to the scholarly community, whether through peer review, editorial board membership, or other roles. These contributions not only advance scientific knowledge but also support professional development and career progression. This practical session aims to demystify the publication process and equip researchers with actionable strategies for publishing success.

Biography

Chris Krägeloh, PhD, is a Professor of Psychology at Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand. His research spans health outcome measurement, psychosocial aspects of robotics and AI, and empirical and conceptual studies in mindfulness. He has authored over 150 journal articles and several books, including Mindfulness-Based Intervention Research and co-edited major reference works on assessment. Chris serves as joint Editor-in-Chief of Mindfulness (Springer), the leading journal in the field, and has recently co-launched a new journal, Journal of Psychology & AI (Taylor & Francis), to start in 2025.

