Part II

The University's Graduate Attributes and seven Generic Intended Learning Outcomes (GILOs) represent the attributes of ideal EdUHK graduates and their expected qualities respectively. Learning outcomes work coherently at the University (GILOs), programme (Programme Intended Learning Outcomes) and course (Course Intended Learning Outcomes) levels to .achieve the goal of nurturing students with important graduate attributes.

In gist, the Graduate Attributes for Undergraduate, Taught Postgraduate and Research Postgraduate students consist of the following three domains (i.e. in short "PEER & I"):

- Professional Excellence;
- Ethical Responsibility; &
- Innovation.

The descriptors under these three domains are different for the three groups of students in order to reflect the respective level of Graduate Attributes.

The seven GILOs are:

1. Problem Solving Skills
2. Critical Thinking Skills
3. Creative Thinking Skills
- 4a. Oral Communication Skills
- 4b. Written Communication Skills
5. Social Interaction Skills

6. Ethical Decision Making
7. Global Perspectives

1. Course Synopsis

As one of the two core courses in this programme to develop students' sociological understanding, this course will introduce sociological perspectives and concepts and examine the two-way relationships between individual and society, history and present, continuity and change at the personal, interpersonal, institutional and community levels.

Sociology is the discipline that helps us see the connections between the individual and the wider society, both today and in the past. In this course students are encouraged to suspend their taken-for-granted assumptions about social lives and to critically reflect how everyday experiences, including the ways we think and do, present ourselves, and interact with others affect and are affected by the larger society in which we live. Each week a polemic issue or question will be held up for critical scrutiny, which aims to reveal how personal experiences, desires, thoughts, actions, emotions, decisions, and interactions are closely linked to the interpersonal, historical, cultural, organizational, technological, and global environments that they inhabit. By the end of the course, students will acquire sociological perspectives and concepts and be able to understand how individuals acquire norms and values, develop and construct identities, build social relationships, define boundaries and social differences, and negotiate and reinforce inequalities and power in relation to institutional contexts, social structures and global changes. The substantive topics in this course include body, beauty and health; gender and sexualities; families and intimate relationships; social media and self-production; social class and inequalities; education and cultural capital, and so forth.

The course encourages students to utilize the sociological lens to reexamine their personal experiences, and hence enhance their self- and social awareness. Students are required to write short reflective journals and document and archive their observations. They are also expected to apply their sociological understanding to examine a community of their choice – be it a family, a student hostel or association, a NGO, a neighbourhood and so on – in a group project in which they have to demonstrate the links between personal issues and public forces and/or to ‘make the familiar strange’.

2. Course Intended Learning Outcomes (CILOs)

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

- CILO<sub>1</sub> Acquire the sociological perspectives to understand the relationships between individual and society;
