One-year Full-time (Programme Code: A1M082)

Leading the Way Forward

With the increased worldwide and complex social challenges, such as economic crisis and government deficit, aging society, pollution and corruption, and rapid development of technologies, the demand for trained talent in public policy and management is increasing from many sectors. Most developing countries need this talent to boost their governance capacity and policy implication capacity in their modernization process, while developed countries need to upgrade their talent in public policy and management to tackle social crisis and maintain citizens' trust and satisfaction.

The discipline of public policy and public management seeks to enhance efficiency, effectiveness and equity in society by using complex and innovative policy instruments, and employing interdisciplinary knowledge and perspective. In this context, the Master of Public Policy and Management (MPPM) Programme is designed to train students in readiness for managerial and leading roles in policy analysis and professional policy practice. Delivered by a team of distinguished specialists, the Programme provides in-service professionals, policy practitioners and future public managers and leaders with skills in policy analysis and evaluation, organization analysis, management, strategic communications, project analysis, public governance, public sector management and development.

The MPPM Programme seeks to foster students' capabilities and skills for future manager and leader positions in professional setting, enhance their chance to hold important government positions, increase their starting salary, and make an impact on their government.

MPPM is a 24-credit-point (cps) programme, comprising 4 Core Courses (12 cps) and 4 Elective Courses (12 cps), with a total of 8 courses. Each course carries 3 cps and all the courses will be conducted in English.

Core Courses (12cps)

- Research Methods for Policy Analysis and Evaluation
- Public Policy and Governance: Processes and Techniques
- Strategic Communication
- Organisational Behaviour and Development

Elective Courses (12cps)

Students may choose any of the 4 combinations of 4 Elective Courses from

- Specialisation I in Governance and Public Management;
- Specialisation II in Social Policy;
- Specialisation III in Higher Education Policy and Management; or
- Any 4 courses from Specialisation I, II, and III without MPPM specialisation.

The offering of elective courses and the quota offered is subject to the Department's decision and students' enrolment. It may vary in each academic year.

Hermes PUN Kam Lam Local ——— Graduate of 2022
Executive Assistant,
The Education University of Hong Kong

The MPPM programme broadened my understanding of public policy, enabling me to have a more thorough analysis and perception when discussing social and global issues. With the support of Mr Clement K.M. Woo, Scholarship, I got the opportunity to do internship in a community service office. In addition, the content of MPPM has helped me gain theoretical knowledge in human resource management, public resources allocation analysis, and decision-making effectiveness, which helps me meet the opportunities and challenges in my current work.

Mark Raygan E. GARCIA Filipino ——— Graduate of 2017
Engagement Manager,
English School Foundation, Hong Kong

I received a full scholarship from the United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia, co-funded by the Commission on Higher Education of the Philippines and the Department of Asian and Policy Studies, to pursue this Master Degree in 2016. The scholarship covered both tuition and residential fees. Had it not been for the scholarship, it would have been difficult to study in an expensive global city as Hong Kong. Because of the doors that it opened for me, the scholarship boosted my confidence, and it developed within me a greater sense of life purpose and motivation to give back. I graduated with Distinction, was included on the Dean's Honours List.

Nitikon JIRATHITIKANKIT Thai ——— Graduate of 2021
Constitutional Academic Officer
Constitutional Court of Thailand

MPPM offered me a full entrance scholarship, which provided me with a great chance to improve my academic and research skills, an essential criterion for my career advancement. MPPM provided me with a wide range of courses, like basic public policy and public administration knowledge. MPPM is very useful for students who want to improve themselves in public management, public administration, and public policy. I have recommended this programme to my friends and colleagues who are thinking of further studies.

Yolanda WANG Shuang Mainland ——— Graduate of 2014
Assistant Manager,
McKinsey & Company

The Internship opportunity at Phoenix TV while I was a MPPG student was a stepping stone for me to enter the media industry. Without this opportunity it would be impossible for me to be a journalist. Additionally, the major takeaways from the programme that has helped in my career building are the critical thinking skills, problem-solving skills and looking at an issue from a global perspective. These skills have not only been useful for analysing different social issues, but also analysing different cases in the business world. I would like to take this opportunity to thank APS, for their care and support and for providing us with endless opportunities.

YIN Dean Chen Jason American ——— Graduate of 2018
Researcher, Li Ka Shing Faculty of Medicine, The University of Hong Kong
FLASS Outbound Learning Scholarship and Entrance Scholarship for Self-financed Programmes Recipient

The FLASS Outbound Learning Scholarship provided by the Faculty of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences allowed me to do a field visit to Peking University, Tsinghua University, and Renmin University to meet Professors and discuss with them their current research on Mainland Chinese Issues. During my trip, I was able to better understand policy decision through engaging with leading researchers who studied different aspects of China's policy making, and was able to collaborate with them on publishing regarding China's health policy reform.
