1. Course Synopsis

Urban heritage management has been a key spatial practice in the contemporary urban landscape in which different socio-economic dynamics have competed to inscribe their meanings onto the built environment. To-date, whilst heritage management has become a professional practice and is associated with other spatial practices which as place making and sustainable development, the role of indigenous knowledge and the importance of community engagement cannot be overlooked. At the same time, urban heritage management is deeply embedded in the construction of cosmopolitan identity in which the past and the present is creatively blended. The course explores the rationales for heritage management and the opportunities and challenges of heritage management in the context of urbanization (such as Yongqing Fang, Taikoo Wharf and Osaka Wharf at Guangzhou, and Ma On Shan Iron Mine and the Mills in Hong Kong). The course will involve lectures, workshops and local field trips with a view to familiarising participants with basic concepts and important themes related to heritage management in Hong Kong and cities in the Greater Bay Area.

2. Course Intended Learning Outcomes (CILOs)

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

- CILO₁ identify the drivers and barriers in urban heritage management practice in Hong Kong and other world cities;
